

This is an awkward question indeed. Mostly because this context doesn't make me feel super comfortable. But never mind. My first kiss was when I was 15. It happened at the beach. I must say I was not expecting it, or more like, I was hoping for it to happen but, it came so suddenly that it completely took me by surprise. I remember that that night I didn't sleep.